STEWART ROBERTSON IS UPBEAT ON THE PROSPECT FOR THE GLOBAL ECONOMY

Economic review and outlook 2014

by Stewart Robertson

Stewart Robertson, Senior Economist with Aviva Investors, is upbeat on the prospects for the global economy in 2014 as developed world growth trumps emerging market headwinds. He favours developed market equities over emerging markets. His outlook for commercial property is favourable. He also favours corporate bonds over government bonds.

It paid to take risk in 2013

Funds higher up the risk spectrum produced the strongest returns in 2013. Property, developed market equities and energy equities produced the strongest returns as you can see from the graph below.
